

2011 Illinois Crop Management Conferences Present Agronomic Research

URBANA, ILL.

The latest research information on critical crop production issues will be discussed at four University of Illinois Crop Management Conferences this winter. These two-day conferences will address a wide array of topics pertinent to crop production, pest management, and natural resources issues while providing a forum for discussion and interaction between participants and university researchers.

The format for each conference consists of 13 unique 50-minute sessions. Certified Crop Advisers can earn up to 13 hours of CEU credit. The registration fee is $130 per person due one week prior to each conference. Late registration or registration at the door is $150 per person. This fee includes lunch, refreshments, and handout material for both days. There is no one-day registration.

To obtain a conference brochure, contact your local U of I Extension unit office. Individuals can register online at <http://web.extension.illinois.edu/edwardsvillecenter/>.
