

Cache River Valley Seed To Hold 21st Annual Field Day

CASH, ARK.

Cache River Valley Seed, L.L.C in Cash, Ark. will host its much-anticipated 21st Annual Rice and Soybean Production Field Day Wednesday, August 19, 2009.

The event, recognized as the largest Rice and Soybean Field Day in the state, draws more than 400 Mid-South growers and dealers each year. Air-conditioned bus tours will begin at 8:30 a.m. and continue throughout the morning.

Representatives from Horizon Ag, RiceTec, Monsanto, Syngenta Seeds, Bayer Crop-Science and other sponsors will be on hand afterward to answer questions about their products and services. Information on the latest seed innovations, new technologies, and expert advice on everything from planting to pesticides will be shared.

The tour will culminate with lunch provided by Strawberry's Barbeque served on site at Cache River Valley Seed. The 2009-2010 Joe

E. McAlister Scholarship recipients – Bryan Elder, a plant science major from Jonesboro and Tiffany Kirklin, an agricultural business major from Rector – will be honored. And scheduled event speakers include Arkansas Congressman Marion Berry and Dr. Ford Baldwin, weed consultant and former Extension weed scientist at the University of Arkansas.

Headquartered in Cash, Ark., Cache River Valley Seed, L.L.C. serves seed dealers and farmers throughout the Mid-South, Midwest, Southwest, Southeast and Southern United States. CRV Seed is a source for retail and wholesale sales of a wide variety of registered and certified seed. The family-owned company was founded in 1961. Cache River Valley Seed, L.L.C. was formed in 1997.

For more information about this year's Field Day or any of the products offered by Cache River Valley Seed, call 1.888.278.7333. Δ

Link Directly To: EQUIPMENT
TECHNOLOGIES