

Mark Your Calendars

PORTAGEVILLE, MO.

On Wednesday, February 6, the Missouri Cotton Production and Outlook Conference will be held at the Fisher Delta Research Center at Portageville. Registration will begin at 7:30 and the meeting will be from 8-1. Although, the agenda is incomplete at this time, we will have as a featured speaker, Dr. Jung Ha-Brookshire, an Assistant professor in the MU Textile and Apparel Center in Columbia. She is working to get the country of origin listed on apparel labels to help support the U.S. cotton industry. Her topic will be Cotton: The Engine of the "Made in USA" Drive. Lunch will be provided to participants. For more information call Mike Milam at the Dunklin County University of Missouri Extension Office at 573-888-4722. Δ

Link Directly To: PIONEER

Link Directly To: RICETEC

Link Directly To: SYNGENTA