

Martin Industries Planters Can Lighten Your Load

ELKTON, KY.

A lot of water has gone under the bridge since our first planter attachments were introduced in the early 90's. Much of it is clearer than it was. Locally, the Red River isn't red anymore.

Over at the old Martin Homeplace things are a lot better now. When water does leave our fields now it is much clearer, and crop yields are more consistent. Everything seems a lot more relaxed now that we have more days suitable for planting and other field operations.

Have you ever thought about what you could do with just a few more days suitable for timely planting each season? There are many hobbies that are less expensive than tillage!

From the beginning it has been our goal to equip planters to work better and be able to spend more time in the field each season. We believe it is one of the best investments you can make, and our many customers across North America agree. If you choose to convert to the planting system shown in this book your banker, your landlord, your family (including succeeding generations), the conservation district, and Martin Industries will all thank you.
